

Abstract

In a previously proposed device, a preliminary filter and a throttle are provided separately in a drive line of a suction jet pump. The separate installation of the preliminary filter and throttle in the drive line is complex and expensive.

- 5 The present invention proposes that the throttle (24) be integrally connected to a preliminary filter (23). This reduces the manufacturing costs and simplifies installation.

(Fig. 2)